Only Electric Motors Legal On Virginia Fishing Lakes

Only electric fishing motors are permitted to power boats on all public fishing lakes in Virginia owned by the Commission of Game and Inland Fisheries. Gasoline motors are permitted on these lakes.

A state-by-state survey of boating regulations by Minn-Kota Manufacturing Company, pioneer manufacturer of electric fishing motors, found that electric motors also are the only power allowed on state park lakes and certain public water supply reservoirs throughout Virginia.

It was explained that the Commission's fishing lakes are all small and designed primarily for fishing, and therefore the speed and power of gasoline motors are unnecessary.

The Commission reports that it knows of "no restrictions on the use of elctric fishing motors in Virginia."

Further information on boating regulation in Virginia may be obtained from the Commission on Game and Inland Fisheries, Box 11104, Richmond, Va., 23230.

The survey shows that electric motors are being permitted on a growing number of lakes throughout the country because they make little noise--just a gentle purring--and there are no exhaust fumes to pollute the air and no oil slicks to foul the water. For the latter reason, electric motors are permitted on municipal water supply reservoirs in many localities.

Minn-Kota introduced the first electric fishing motor in 1932. The motors have gained wide popularity on both fresh and salt water because of the slow trolling speeds of which they are capable, as well as their quiet operation and the lightness of the units. Smaller models weigh as little as nine pounds.

Users point out that the motors also have an advantage in times of gasoline shortage and do not present a fire hazard. They operate on standard 12-volt storage batteries such as are used in most automobiles. Indeed, is the fishing motor battery is the same size, it can be switched with the car battery for charging after a day's trolling.

Most electric fishing motors have underwater engines with drives direct to the propeller. They are available with a 360-degree swing with start-stop foot control and remote steering. The motor may be used on the stern, bow or side of the boat.

Over-water models also are available with cable drives, making possible curved shafts that are helpful in warding off weeds.

FOOD SHOPPER

With warmer weather thoughts turn to getting the barbecue in shape for another season. Of course, more adventuresome people have been using their grills throughout the winter.

Two favorite items linked with outdoor cookery are meat and poultry. Withlower prices at the retail level it's time to take advantage of the excellent meat and poultry buys. In the meat category beef and pork prices have come down on most cuts with many advertised "specials".

The less tender cuts such as chuck, plus even sirloin steak are now in the "affordable" price range. It's easy to toss a tender steak on the grill, but with a little preplanning you can marinate a chuck steak and then grill it to perfevtion also. Another good buy, flank steak, can be marinated, cut into strips and rolled pinwheel style. This should keep your guests wondering where you picked up such culinary skills!

The standard barbecue item in the pork category is spareribs. Well, this year be adventurous an try some of those less expensive pork blade steaks. This cut is great when grilled with your favorite barbecue sauce. don't forget the Virginia favorite-ham. This is ideally suited for kabobs, chunks of ham alternated with fruit.

Poultry prices are usually seesawing up and down. this if the case with chicken, but turkey is now remaining at a low price range; lower than it has been in months. Turkey parts can be grilled or put on the rotisserie.

What's a barbecue without a favorite salad? If colesla'w is a popular item around your house, you're in luck! Cabbage supplies are heavy and prices low. Deviled eggs are another favorite. Again, you'll find prices on eggs at the grocery store. But, if you're a potato salad fan get ready for higher prices. Supplies are lower this year and prices are still increasing.

Mrs. Betty Rhodenizer

Tapes Two TV Programs

Mrs. Betty Rhodenizer of Appomattox recently traveled to Roanoke to tape two television programs for WSLS-TV Channel 10.

The Rev. Robert Alderman, a former pastor of Liberty Baptist Church in Appomattox, now pastor of Shenandoah Baptist Church in Roanoke, was visiting Lloyd Vaughan in his home not long ago and heard Mrs. Rhodenizer sing on Mr. J. J. Bowman's Sunday School program on WLVA-TV, Channel 13, where she is a frequent soloist. As a result she received an invitation to appear on Mr. Alderman's program which is seen each Sunday morning from 9:30 a.m. to 10:00 a.m. on WSLS-TV, Channel 10, Roanoke. The first of the two programs which featured Mrs. Rhodenizer as soloist was aired last Sunday, June 2. The second program will be aired this Sunday, June 9th, at 9:30 a.m.

She has received an invitation to return to Roanoke in the near future to tape more programs for Mr. Alderman.

An interesting sidelight to Mrs. Rhodenizer's appearance on the same program who turned out to be a second cousin she had never met.

In addition to singing for television, Betty is guest soloist for numerous churches in Appomattox and surrounding counties. She is employed as a teller at Fidelity National Bank, Appomattox, and is married to Investigator Clifford O. Rhodenizer of the Virginia State Police. They have two children, Cliff, Jr., 13, and Donna Jean, 10.

St. Luke

Despite the very rainy day Sunday, June 2 at 2:30, 96 persons were present to enjoy the birthday dinner for Mrs. Eva M. Clarke. Given by her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Jones of Washington, D. C. at the home of her oldest daughter, Mrs. Inez Pattrick of Route 1, Appomattox, Virginia.

Mrs. Clarke received many valuable gifts and also money from friends and the children. She is the mother of 13 children. 6 boys, 7 girls of whom all attended the dinner only 4 were absent. There are 45 grandchildren, 6 son-in-laws and 2 daughters-in-law. Happy Birthday was sung by the group wishing her many more such days. Prayer of grace was said by Deacon Chas. H. Canada. Mr. and Mrs. Campbell of Lynchburg was present and brought gifts. Mrs. Clarke is employed by them. This was a a lovely day and many pleasant memories will go from it.

Regular preaching services at the St. Luke Baptist Church Sunday, June 2 was well attended. Rev. McLaughlin, pastor, was in charge and gave a fine message, subject "It is Hard but It Pays." The Junior Choir rendered the music. The Senior Ushers were in their post. The offering for last month including the Men's Day for the third Sunday in May was over $1,000 dollars. Many visitors attended services.

On June 16 the WSCS of St. Luke will be giving a talent program benefit of building fund. Please come.

Mrs. Esther Callaham. Mrs. Francis Beatham, Mrs. Maggie Claytor and Mrs. Shirley Callaham are much improved and out again after being ill for some time.

Two ACHS Juniors Recognized

Two Juniors at Appomattox County High School have been disignated as King Fellows at King College in Bristol, Tennessee for the summer school program.

Deborah Lynne Rush, right above, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Rush of Red House, has been chosen as one of the participants on the basis of her high academic achiever- ent and interest in attendance. Debbie is in a college preparatory program and plans application for admission to the College of William & Mary, Williamsburg.

David Jarrell Marshall, left above, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Marshall of Appomattox, was also chosen on the basis of his high academic achievement and interest. David will be unable to accept his scholarship since he will be touring Poland with the Liberty Youth Singers.

The King Fellows Program gives recognition to high ranking male and female students from high school junior classes and provides fully paid tuition and room fees for the summer session. These students will be able to enrich their educational background and college credit will be earned for the successful completion of their courses.

VBS At New Hope in June

We're back with more news about VBS at New Hope, June 17-21, with a parent's night program planned to climax the school.

The older children, ages 9-11, are planning to study the book "Understanding Who Jesus Is." One truth stands out above others in this work: Jesus is God's Son through whom God reveals himself and his purpose, both for individuals and for mankind in general. Older people could profit by taking this study of Jesus because it includes the progress about Him & His birth, His baptism, His temptations, His death, and finally His resurrection. In this day of "Jesus-people," "Jesus-freaks" and such, we are glad that our children have an opportunity to know Jesus as Savior and Lord. We hope they will take advantage of this opportunity to learn more about the Bible and will put its principles into practice in their lives.

Mrs. Faye Tucker heads this department, with assistance from Mrs. Bessie O'Brien, Janice Smith, and Mildred Alvis. When these creative teachers put their heads to work, they really come up with some excellent projects. Mrs. Tucker will have a mountain scene related to the work of Jesus, with one of the pupils to describe the activity. Mrs. O'Brien's group will make Quiz-Kid cards with questions based on Bible facts. In Mrs. Smith's group the pupils will make film strips, possibly portraying scenes from the life of a missionary in Africa.

You wouldn't believe the crazy ideas people have about farming.

They expect you to increase production without fertilizer, fuel, chemicals or practically anything else.

They never stop to think about how much capital it takes to start and operate a farm. Or how much hard work.

And yet they get upset if you make a profit.

That's why I appreciate dealing with someone like Jim Nolen, who heads up the Agricultural Department at Fidelity National Bank. He's been here himself. Priming tobacco. Working the fields.

And as an agricultural specialist, he knows just how much it hurts me to have beef prices down about $10 per cwt. Or to have fertilizer supplies low and prices high.

To some bankers, these things don't mean much. But I can talk to Jim and know that he understands. Because he's been through it all himself.

And I know that he can help me take care of my number one concern--increased profits. With financial advice. Credit packages. And all the budget and planning assistance I can use.

What's more, Fidelity's got people just like him in all their branches. People trained in both farming and finance.

When you think about that, it's not surprising to find out that Fidelity lends more money to farmers than any other Virginia bank.

And I guess that's why I handle all my banking there. After all, I only do business with people who really know what they're talking about. And who back that talk up with action.

That's just plain common sense.
